

The classic children's board game Candy Land meets West St. Paul's traditional Egg Hunt to create a unique new experience that fits with our times. A one-way loop around the West St. Paul Sports Complex leads households on an egg-citing adventure to collect eggs from designated areas. Households will be assigned a color (similar to drawing a colored card in Candy Land) and will only stop at those specific color spots along the route—collecting a specified number of eggs from that area. Upon finishing the route eggs can be turned in for treats and toys.

We can't egg-aggerate this enough—you must pre-register all participants! This event is FREE but failure to attend without a one-weeks' notice will result in a $3.00 charge per household. With the limited numbers we are allowed to have in accordance with state guidelines; this failure to show charge allows us a level of confidence that those who registered will attend. We want to avoid people registering and not showing up (thus taking away spots from other members of the community).

Current guidelines as of 1/26 allow for three households w/ a maximum of 15 people can gather while physically distanced by 6 feet.

6 waves of 15 every 15 minutes will allow for 100 people. = 1.5 hours
