HOW YOUR CONGRESSIONAL REPRESENTATIVE CAN HELP

Congresswoman Angie Craig's Office is currently actively assisting those in detention and the families of detained individuals.

When a loved one is detained:

- The office can help families navigate the detainee locator and can share questions they have for ICE.
- The office can send pictures of proof-of-citizenship to detention centers and inquire about the release of a detained U.S. citizen.

The more information you can provide, the better – record video or audio, take photos, and be ready to provide the detainee's full name, A-Number, and date and country of birth. Additional helpful information:

- When and where was the arrest? Was any reason given?
- What is their current immigration status?
- What is their current immigration status and normal address?
- Who is their closest family member and what is their contact?
- Do they have legal representation?
- Do they have complex medical conditions requiring care? (What medication and for what conditions?)

Privacy Release Form - This is the most important document for timely processing.

- Fill out a DHS Privacy Release Form (DHS Release Form 60-001)
- Those in detention may have trouble filling out paperwork in a timely fashion. It is good to proactively give your family members a signed privacy release form.

Medical needs of detainees:

- Sending pictures of prescriptions, doctors' notes and medication lists to detention centers.
- Flag urgent medical needs and raise concerns if a detainee reportedly does not have access to their medication.
 - Note: It is possible that a detainee may be released if their medical conditions can be proven to be severe and beyond the care of an ICE facility.
